SA dating violence stalking, specifically.

Green Dot for Students and Staff, how to intervene if you see these behaviors

National curriculum,. Created and owned by nonprofit, implemented in many settings but we get to tailor it for our campus.

Work harder not smarter - goal isn't to train every single student on campus. Goal is to train students with reach and then implement peer to peer education.

Student training and fac/staff trainings are different, they are tailored appropriately for each group.

Sphere of influence, using different people in different places that make sense. Rep from all divisions on campus,

Ways to support green dot - request a private training, attend an open session, nominate a student for the bystander training, sign up for green dot news, tell students about the HELP certificate program, promote green dot week.

Question - social media influence? Not exactly - students of influence can include any student who is actively engaged on campus. Want ALL students to do the training, but if every student can't be reached the hope is to reach students who will then reach more students.

Nugget.

Education and Events Committee, Lora Bassett and Jill Gosnell:

The bake off turned out really well yesterday. We started with 23 entries and after cancellations, we had 11 show up. Carrie will be getting the final count of attendees. Thanks to all who came and helped out! (Lora didn't leave the list of winners with me and I can't remember all of them to announce.)

Audra and I attended the UREC 5K on February 3rd. There were about 500 participants. We wanted to recognize the UNC Charlotte participants, so Audra got the name of the best male and female finishers. We have gifts to present to them. The male is an employee in CRES, but I'm not sure about the female.
